

While I understand the concern that providers of HDTV have regarding piracy and redistribution of their broadcasts, I would hope that there are ways of achieving this that would not cripple those of us who are supporting another emerging technology - the PVR. Tivo's and tivo-like devices are all about choices, whereas it seems that this docket would put a big damper on those choices. It looks like we are (I hope) unintentional victims, but it's akin to punishing the whole class for the bad behavior of one person!
